CIAED

The International Congress of Distance Education (CIAED), organized by the Brazilian Association for Distance Education (ABED), is one of Latin America's leading events on digital, hybrid, and distance education.

The congress brings together researchers, administrators, institutions, companies, organizations, and public sector representatives from Brazil and abroad.

CIAED 2027 will be held in Manaus, strengthening discussions on inclusion, sustainability, innovation, and expanding access to education across different territories and contexts.

- national and international keynote lectures
- scientific presentations
- Expo-EaD
- networking and international cooperation
- academic and cultural experiences
- visits and immersive activities

A person is standing on the porch of a traditional thatched-roof house. The house has a dark wooden frame and a thick thatch of palm fronds. The porch is supported by wooden posts. In the background, there are lush green trees and a body of water. The scene is brightly lit, suggesting a sunny day.

Amazonía Edu Experience

CIAED 2027 offers an immersive experience in education in the Amazon.

In addition to the congress academic and professional program, participants will have the opportunity to engage with the educational, social, cultural, and environmental realities of the Amazon region.

The program will include activities and experiences such

- visits to distance education hubs and initiatives
- academic and cultural experiences
- activities related to sustainability and inclusion
- connections between education, territory, and Amazonian diversity

The Amazon will be present not only as a backdrop but as a living territory of learning, innovation, and transformation.
